Your Grace, The Duke of Westminster,

You may be aware that I signed a contract with your late father in 2010 and I return now with the state of my somewhat mature response to that brief in good faith, having fulfilled my promise. Note, there is a significant element to the material I have personally witnessed and now share with you that I consider sacred, at least amongst the brothers of Abraham and probably beyond. It would not surprise me if you find my formal title shocking and potentially unbelievable. However, I now belong to a new foreign order.

As the rightful Fleet Admiral of the Commonwealth of Peoples, I have returned with a significant payload that has legitimacy to be recognised as Sovereign globally. The society is technically gifted and foreign to all Nation States. I recognise that your House has vast financial wealth and expertise in foreign diplomacy. As this letter is essentially a formal approach by a foreign mission, I hope you understand why I believe the Duchy of Westminster may have the right to first refusal. Therefore, I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to showcase this Commonwealth of Peoples developments with you, to consider investment opportunities and partnerships. There may also be a serious case for a new foreign embassy/institution of faith.

The majority of our Intellectual Property is in holdings and not yet operational. We have returned with the following response payload, organised into subsidiary vehicles: Colours of Averlorn; Fringe Papers; Gillett Instruments; Hoshi Property; Mettle Studio.

I enclose sample products from these viable businesses and would appreciate a thoughtful audience within reasonable time. I dearly wish for there to be no question of potential insult in our correspondence.

Yours truly,

His Grace, Prince Aidan the Arch Duke of Anirain GMCOP
